

CORONAVIRUS (COVID-19)

TIME-CRITICAL FACILITY CLEANING & DISINFECTION SERVICES

The recent spread of Coronavirus (COVID-19) within the U.S. has quickly become one of the single largest disruptions of industrial output in history.

The outbreak has provided an unprecedented need for timely and thorough facility decontamination services to enable the return of our work forces to a safe and productive environment.

ENTACT is one of the largest and most respected private sector environmental remediation contractors in the U.S. and we are well positioned to provide decontamination services to our clients during this time of need.

Unlike many commercial cleaning contractors or emergency response (ER) firms our company can provide focused well-planned facility decontamination services supported by a dedicated team of environmental scientists, engineers, and certified industrial hygiene professionals. This combination of professional resources will provide verifiable/documented results post decontamination which is a critical step in the decision to keep or return your employees back to work.
